

Municipal Law and Community Associations

The Municipal Law and Community Associations practice group at Pullman & Comley offers a wide range of legal services to assist municipalities and public and private community organizations with their unique responsibilities and challenges.

Pullman & Comley's attorneys have been involved as volunteers and elected officials at the municipal, state and federal levels, as well as in community and homeowners associations, giving us a practical perspective in representing our clients.

Members of the firm's Town Governments, Departments and Authorities practice currently serve as town counsel and special counsel to several municipalities providing representation on issues ranging from interpretation and revision of charters and ordinances to labor and employment matters, zoning and land use planning and compliance with state and federal regulatory requirements.

Pullman & Comley's Condominiums, Residential Associations and Community Organizations practice provides counsel on the unique laws governing common interest communities, and draws upon the resources and interdisciplinary strength of the firm to address matters from financing and revenue collection to environmental issues and redevelopment, among others.
