SERVING THE LEGAL NEEDS
OF TECHNOLOGY
COMPANIES

OUR APPROACH

The explosive growth of new and innovative technologies in recent years has given rise to a host of new strategic and legal challenges, as well as tremendous opportunities.

Pullman & Comley's attorneys offer a pragmatic, interdisciplinary approach in responding to the complex needs of our technology clients, combining practical experience from our work with traditional business enterprises with an extensive knowledge of the latest developments in various high tech industries.

COMPREHENSIVE LEGAL SERVICES

Pullman & Comley offers a broad range of legal services to our technology clients, including the following:

Corporate and Business Law Services

Our attorneys provide counsel on issues including corporate governance and choice of business entity, the negotiation of commercial agreements and financings, and mergers, acquisitions and dispositions.

We represent clients on matters related to electronic contracting and data exchange; software licensing; and contracts for technology and business process outsourcing, including application service provider, hosting and service level agreements. In addition, our attorneys provide counsel on Internet law, including privacy, domain name disputes and web site development.

We also assist our clients with a variety of tax, securities and antitrust issues, as well as with the preparation of complex executive employment agreements and compensation packages.

Venture Capital and Private Equity

Our Emerging Business and Venture Capital practice addresses the strategic, financial and regulatory needs of technology companies through every stage of growth, while our Private Equity practice represents both private equity investors and technology companies that are being acquired, providing counsel on all aspects of a transaction.

Intellectual Property Services

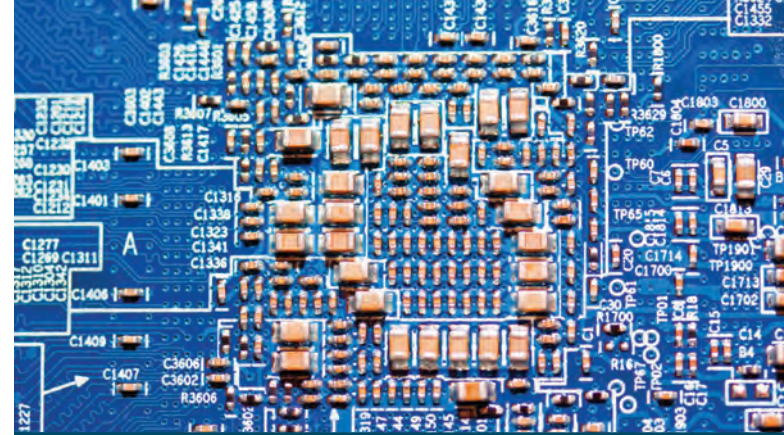

Pullman & Comley's Technology and Intellectual Property practice assists clients with copyright enforcement and infringement defense; trademark and trade name registration, enforcement and infringement defense; patent strategy, enforcement and infringement defense; and the transfer of intellectual property assets in connection with equity investment and divestiture transactions.

Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Protection

Our Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Protection practice counsels clients on wide-ranging legal matters associated with conducting business and exchanging information over the Internet, including interference with privacy rights, data storage, theft and corruption, network intrusion and abuse, computer fraud and abuse, access security, cyber defamation, and a host of other cyber crimes.

Litigation and Dispute Resolution

Pullman & Comley's Litigation attorneys handle a full range of business disputes and other litigation matters for public and privately-held technology companies as well as officers, directors and shareholders.

OUR TECHNOLOGY CLIENTS

We represent clients across the technology sector – advanced hardware manufacturers, software developers, IT services and new media, Internet and telecom companies, biotech and health care companies, venture capital firms and manufacturers of alternative energy and environmental technologies.

Our attorneys have extensive experience working with start-ups and emerging businesses as well as fully established technology companies.

Representative Experience

- Serving as counsel to early stage companies involved in developing online financial and investment services, imaging, recording, web entertainment, medical devices, gourmet content and product fulfillment
- Serving as general counsel to an emerging business in negotiations involving financing, product sales, warranties, teaming agreements, sales distribution networks and systems support
- Representing a manufacturer of high-tech devices in its corporate formation, governance and equity raises
- Representing a consolidator of computer systems and computer services companies in its merger and acquisition initiatives
- Representing licensed national and regional wireline and wireless telecommunications providers and national wireless infrastructure developers in procurement of siting and regulatory approvals
- Successfully defending a software company against the unfair competition litigation commenced by its competitor
- Representing an information technology company in investigations and civil litigation involving trademark and copyright infringement
