

Welcome to "Working Together"

Working Together

10.22.2013

By Joshua Hawks-Ladds

Welcome to the Pullman & Comley Labor, Employment and Employee Benefits Law Blog, "Working Together," providing timely, substantive information on the constantly changing workplace laws affecting your employees and your business. The articles on this blog are authored by the attorneys in our Labor, Employment Law and Employee Benefits Department, each of whom brings individual experience and perspective to their writing. Over the years, our clients have benefitted from our ability to work as a team, bringing our collective knowledge and experience together to deliver thoughtful legal analysis. We anticipate that "Working Together" will do the same. Our blog will cover more than employment and labor issues; it will also include commentary on immigration, employee benefits and ERISA matters.

We do not want this blog to be a one-way street; feel free to comment and ask questions for our team to answer. We will provide a timely response.

We are very excited about this new Pullman & Comley blog and hope that you enjoy the valuable information that our team will provide for you.

--Pullman & Comley, LLC's Labor and Employment and Employee Benefits Department