Much planning and discussion has gone into the preparation for the reopening of schools this fall. However, many questions remain. Pullman & Comley School Law attorneys Mark Sommaruga and Michael McKeon led this webinar for school leaders, administrators and other essential school personnel to discuss issues and concerns about the start of the school year amid the pandemic.

Topics covered included:

- use of PPE with high-needs students
- least restrictive environment, pull-put and push-in services, and student cohorts
- assessing assessments — restarting the referral and triennial processes
