Specialty Litigation Department of the Year Award

Pullman’s Family Law team was recognized at the 2022 Connecticut Legal Awards celebration on May 11 with the “Specialty Litigation Department of the Year” award. The award, sponsored by the Connecticut Law Tribune, is bestowed upon practices that have had a significant impact in the field of law and have demonstrated the department’s excellence in this specialty. Pullman’s Family Law attorneys have played a critical role in transforming family law in Connecticut on issues such as the enforcement of prenuptial and postnuptial agreements, calculation of child support for high income families and the modification of alimony awards.

Also recognized at the 2022 Connecticut Legal Awards was Family Law attorney Kelly Scott who received the “New Leader in the Law” award, granted to lawyers under the age of 40 who have excelled in the courtroom, client services and in service to bar associations and performing pro bono work.

Our deep bench of attorneys, including top trial and appellate lawyers, retired judges and collaboratively trained attorneys are skilled negotiators and able mediators who are able to quickly pivot – especially during COVID – to assist clients in efficient and effective resolution of family law disputes.

Pullman’s Family Law practice has consistently been recognized by legal industry rankings, including Best Lawyers, Super Lawyers, Super Lawyers “Rising Stars,” Connecticut Law Tribune’s “New Leaders in the Law” and “Best Family Law Group” and the American Institute of Family Law Attorneys “Connecticut’s Ten Best.” These honors serve as recognition of the outstanding work that Pullman’s Family Law attorneys perform on behalf of their clients.
