

Adam Mocchiolo Discusses Litigation Funding in Connecticut Law Tribune Article

April 18, 2019

Adam Mocchiolo, a litigation attorney who helps clients solve problems in complex commercial litigation matters, was quoted in a recent Connecticut Law Tribune article regarding the portfolio-based approach to commercial litigation funding. Having watched the trends in litigation funding for years, Mocchiolo said the uncertainty of jury trials and other factors lead lenders to reject nearly every request for funding for law firms. "You never know with any one case if you are likely to win," Mocchiolo said. "More cases bundled together smooth out that volatility."

To read the complete article, please click here.

Practice Areas

Litigation