

IN THE NEWS: Christopher McCormack Comments on Housatonic Community College's Alumni Hall of Fame Gala

October 18, 2013

Pullman & Comley Environmental and Land Use attorney and president of the Housatonic Community College Foundation Board, Christopher McCormack, was quoted in "NASA Chief Engineer of Mars Rover Project to Speak at Housatonic Community College's Fifth Annual Alumni Hall of Fame Gala," an article about the college's hall of fame induction ceremony.

According to Chris, "With the reduction of federal and state assistance across the board to community colleges, it has never been more crucial for private enterprise and private citizens to join with groups like the HCC Foundation to assure this generation of students is prepared to fill American jobs."
