Steven J. Stafstrom Jr., attorney in Pullman & Comley's Litigation and Real Estate practices, was highlighted in a recent CT Insider article on how leaders of the General Assembly are working on a trio of legislative packages for consideration during a special session, including coronavirus impact, police, and election issues.

Steve, who is also co-chairman of the law-writing Judiciary Committee, and fellow lawmakers are exploring issues including independent investigations of police-involved deaths, banning so-called chokeholds, and requiring more use of video cameras.
