

Family Law Attorney Jon T. Kukucka Discusses Stock Options on Divorce Podcast

June 16, 2022

WTF Divorce Podcast

Jon T. Kukucka, a Family Law attorney who represents clients in cases involving property division and alimony, appeared on the WTF Divorce Podcast to discuss how to handle stock options in a divorce. During the discussion with podcast host Rob Roseman, Jon directed listeners to first make an assessment of what stock options exist, what their status is and what conditions are linked to the options. After this analysis, Jon recommended that a decision should be made as to whether to keep the options, since any action aside from dividing them becomes more complex. And finally, Jon explained that depending on the nature of the options, they may be treated as either an asset or income.

Listen to the full podcast here.

Professionals

Jon T. Kukucka

Practice Areas

Collaborative Divorce

Custody, Parenting and Relocation Litigation

Family Law

Postnuptial Agreements

Prenuptial Agreements